

A Story With a Moral.

Speaking of the people who come in into the movements of reform and who on the air of the early martyrs regard a critic of the woman's movement as a story of a fisherman down in Gloucester. He had a little fishing smack and was in the habit of going out in the harbor to catch a few fish. Coming in one morning when there was a dense fog, all at once the fog lifted, and he found he was sailing directly into an East Indian man, a large vessel, lying at anchor. However, he got across of her and cried out:

"Ship, ahoy!"

"Aye, aye, sir," said the captain of the great East Indian.

"What ship is that?"

"The Albatross."

"Where from?"

"From Calcutta, bound for Boston."

"How long have you been out?"

"One hundred and ten days. Who are you?"

"The Lucy, from Gloucester."

"How long have you been out?"

"All night."

Well, now, when these all night people undertake to discuss this question you would think they had been out 110 days. —Philadelphia Ledger.

The Color Line Obliterated.

The Chicago Women's club, which distinguished itself last winter by having an internal dissension on the admission of Mrs. Fannie Berrier Williams, a colored applicant for membership, has at last played itself on record as being in sympathy with the spirit of the fifteenth amendment.

The progressive members of the club have changed the constitution, and the club as a whole has accepted the amendments. The clause which it was feared might cause a controversy was passed without comment. It declares qualifications for membership to be character, intelligence and the reciprocal advantages to the club and the individual, without regard to race, color, religion or politics, and it was carried, consequently by the concluding ballot. By virtue of this final decision on the color line the supporters of Mrs. Fannie Berrier Williams say there is no reason why her name may not be proposed for readmission this autumn. —Exchange.

Miss Mary W. Wells.

Miss Mary W. Wells, a graduate of Wyoming (N. Y.) seminary, has been superintendent of the deaconess home in Baltimore for nearly two years past. Recently she was transferred to the superintendency of the Jane Abraham deaconess home of Portland, Or. Miss Wells was a teacher for some time in Iowa Wesleyan university, afterward preceptress in Napu Collegiate institute, California. Returning to Iowa she took a course of study in medicine and was admitted to the Iowa Pharmaceutical association. The care of her aged mother in Knoxville, Ia., confined her to home work, where she was selected as Sunday school superintendent, and served with great acceptability. When relieved from home cares, she entered the Lucy Webb Hayes Training school in Washington, where she graduated with honor.

Want the Law Rescinded.

Women are not allowed to form political societies in Germany, and as the police have the power of determining what a political society is they may at any moment dissolve a woman's organization on that plea. At the next session of the reichstag Baroness von Strykowski hopes to present a petition praying that the law be rescinded, and over 10,000 signatures of women have already been received. In the meantime all suffrage work must be effected by personal influence, and the baroness is doing all she can by lecturing and writing to awaken interest in the question. She and Frau Caver are editing a new woman's paper, Die Frauenbewegung. —Berlin Letter.

Like a Bag of Feathers.

Ex-Governor Long has well said that the argument against woman suffrage is like a bag of feathers. You may pound it all day, and it remains a bag of feathers still. There is no solidity in it, yet you can make no impression upon it. The method of argument used by the average opponent of equal rights, he says, is identical with that of James II as described by Macaulay. It was the habit of King James, he says, to make some entirely unfounded assertion, and after his counselors had respectfully demonstrated that it was not true to assert it again in exactly the same words. It is no wonder that a monarch so impervious to reason had finally to be deposed.

Mrs. S. R. Krom.

Mrs. S. R. Krom of Plainfield, N. J., who has been active in the movement for school suffrage for women, rendered a valuable service last year by compiling careful statistics of the number of women voting at school elections and serving on school boards in each county of New Jersey. She thinks equal suffrage would "raise the moral tone of the whole country, especially as regards the liquor traffic and the prevention of the regulation of vice." The Newark Daily Advertiser recalls in this connection that the age of protection for girls was raised from 10 to 15 years.

Speed Grapes.

To 5 pounds of grapes, underripe, allow 3 pounds of sugar, 2 teaspoonfuls each ground cinnamon and allspice, half teaspoonful cloves and quarter cupful vinegar. Pulp the grapes and boil the skins until tender. Cook the pulp and rub through a colander; add skins, sugar, vinegar and spices, and boil until thick as marmalade.
